

Sample LOR for Master's Program

Letter Of Recommendation

It makes me extremely happy to write this letter for my student Mr. Ravi Patel and support his decision to pursue higher studies at (University name). He is acquainted with me since the first year of his bachelor's program and I have instructed him in the subjects of Information Systems and Engineering Economics, Software Modeling and Design, and Computer Networks. As his professor, I attest that he was among the brightest students of his batch and with his ability to remain flexible adapted to any situation quickly with ease.

He pays attention to all the lectures, has always been regular with attending his classes as well practical sessions and scored consistently well in all the subjects that I taught him. His passion to acquire deep subject knowledge was remarkable as he was open to learning new concepts and even strived to learn from his mistakes. Exhibiting a similar approach towards his assigned tasks, he always delivered quality results and ensured that all his assignments were submitted on time. Focused on improving his performance, did not hesitate in asking advice to take corrective measures, and obediently followed all the instructions. In all these years, that I have known him, he amazed me with his phenomenal growth as an individual, and I believe the positive results he achieved were largely due to his acceptance of feedback constructively.

Under my guidance he has attended a seminar on the topic of "Blockchain-based E-voting System", and completed his final year project titled, "Emotion Sentiment Analysis Using Enhanced Neural Network". His project was based on an idea to develop a system that will automatically recognize the facial expression from the image during a live interview and classify emotions for final decision. Since the project included novel concepts, willingness to learn and research skills were two major requirements, and fulfilling both of them successfully he was incredible with his performance in this research-based project. Not only did he conduct extensive research but also was not averse to spending extra hours reviewing numerous research papers to extract relevant information. With an affinity for extra-curricular activities, he was good in this sphere too and fervently participated in various events organized at the college level, including.

I think, Ravi is a self-motivated individual and this coursework will prepare him well for all the career challenges and opportunities a field as dynamic as technology can offer. I see no reason that he will be anything other than an excellent addition to your institute, and therefore I recommend him without any reservation.
