Letter Of Recommendation

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Mr. Siddharth Nair whom I have known since (mention year) in my position at ABC College, where I have taught him the subject of him the subjects of Computer-Aided Design and Manufacturing. Based on my observations, I found him an assiduous and highly motivated individual with remarkable passion to reach his goals.

He pays attention to all the lectures, has always been regular with attending his classes as well practical sessions, and consistently secured top grades ("A") in the subjects that I taught him. His strong subject knowledge is remarkable and possesses sound know-how of multiple technologies. He is especially interested in designing and fabrication of mechatronics projects, and in his pursuit of understanding the topic better, regularly attends workshops on mechatronics. Consequently, he has is adept at solving complex problems and as a logical thinker, strives to diagnose a problem in detail to up with effective yet easy to implement solutions. He can work well with others in a team and exhibits the ability to actively listen to others, as well as put across his opinions and concerns politely. Furthermore, in group activities, he is an engaging participant, conducts himself professionally, and is always respectful with others.

I was his project guide for a design and fabrication-related project and mentored him in an inter-college competition, "Unleash" and a national-level competition, "Smart India Hackathon 2019". During the hackathon, he was the leader of the team developing medical supplies VTOL aerial transport vehicle, named "Medair". While the technical intricacies such as terrain efficient carbon fiber design of the VOTL aircraft and use of phase change materials for its container were impressive, I think the way he led the team, in particular, contributed significantly towards meeting the expectations. Leading by example, he was meticulous in executing his tasks, did not mind taking up additional responsibilities, and was willing to support his colleagues. In addition to academics, he is actively involved in various extra-curricular activities as well and was a member of the entrepreneurship cell of the college. He also takes interest in social activities and is associated with the NCC Army wing, responsible for conducting social events.

In my opinion, this course will help Siddharth in gaining industry insights in the field of his interest and would further enhance his knowledge and skills. Therefore, I strongly recommend him to the institution.
